IMRAN LOKHON MENTOR PROFILE

A LITTLE BIT ABOUT ME

For over 10 years now I have been very fortunate to be representing the community near Oxford within local Government. This has given me a great insight into how local Council's work from the inside out. For example the planning and building control process, housing and benefits and dealing with officers within the local authority. I have also been involved in strategic housing decisions for regions within the South East of England. I have also worked closely with current and former Members of Parliament.

Your

Why

For me it's really about taking your 'why' in property and working with you to turn this into an action with the right team and support around you. I would love to be a motivational drive for you to achieve your ambitions and plans in your business and personal life. I have a huge passion for working with others and helping make a real difference. I would love for you to be the next person I can build a long-term relationship with and be part of your journey to thrive.

Thank you
